THE BIG Picture

EXCLUSIVE!

SCORPION The crisis-solving geniuses see their skills reaching new heights on the December 14 episode of the CBS hit. When torrential El Niño rains cause a dam to fail on Christmas Eve, threatening to flood a town in the valley below, Special Agent Cabe Gallo (Robert Patrick) traverses the dam's face to seal a widening crack. "Robert was so fired up, he actually sang the 'Marines' Hymn' on the way down," says executive producer Nicholas Wootton. "After he got back up top, he said, 'That might have been the gnarliest stunt I've ever done.' Coming from the T-1000, that's saying something."

THE FOSTERS Rob Morrow (right) begins a recurring role as Will, a free spirit with money to burn, when Season 3 returns January 25 on Freeform (formerly ABC Family). "Will made some good coin in the finance business, cashed out, bought an RV and hit the road," Morrow says. Now he's palling around with Sharon (Annie Potts, center, with Teri Polo). Morrow has directed the teen drama, but this is his first time in front of the camera. "Acting is being able to be a kid again," he says. "Directing is playing at being God."

AND THEN THERE WERE NONE In the Lifetime miniseries based on Agatha Christie's bestselling 1939 novel, 10 strangers visit the remote Soldier Island and soon begin to die—is there a killer among them? "Each guest is invited for a different and unconnected reason, and each holds a guilty secret," explains Hilary Strong, executive producer and CEO of Agatha Christie Ltd. The two-night event, airing in spring 2016, stars (from left) Maeve Dermody, Aidan Turner, Toby Stephens, Burn Gorman, Charles Dance, Sam Neill and Christopher Hatherall.

TV's Federal Bureau of Insanity

How legit are FBI teams on fall's top dramas?

BY GREGORY E. MILLER

Most TV shows require a suspension of disbelief, whether it's sitcom characters getting stuck in an elevator or a town consisting solely of certified hotties. But this fall, it's stories about the FBI that have required viewers to toss doubt to the wind. Some of the season's biggest new hits—Blindspot, Limitless and Quantico—have the G-men (and women) front and center but often within confounding circumstances. Would the Bureau really arm a civilian just because she's connected to a case? Would it let a guy on drugs run the show? And is the FBI Academy really like summer camp?

Each of these dramas works hard to be true to life, even enlisting former members of the FBI as consultants to help keep things in check. With that in mind, we look at the evidence.

JOINING THE TEAM

On both NBC's Blindspot and CBS's Limitless, an outsider is quickly incorporated into an FBI squad, despite lacking proper authority or training. Nancy Savage, executive director of the Society of Former Special Agents of the FBI, says that, while language interpreters or informants may be brought onboard cases, they wouldn't be out in the field. "It's more likely that we would keep them clandestine," she says. "You would use their information and not reveal [who they are]."

As for characters like Blindspot's mysterious Jane Doe (Jaimie Alexander) joining the team and being armed, Robert, a 25-year FBI vet who consults on the show (and who asked that his last name not be used for professional reasons), says that's a leap viewers just have to agree to take.

QUANTICO

LIMITLESS

So no, Jane wouldn't get to kick down any doors while packing heat. "Think of the liability on something like that!" he says.

Instead, Robert focuses on making sure that if Jane holds a weapon, the actress does it correctly. "What gives me satisfaction is when a scene is completed and Jaimie looks over to me, kind of like, 'Hey, Dad, did I do OK?'" Robert says. "And I just nod to her, 'Looks good.'"

"Even though the things we do are not strictly according to the way it works at the FBI, we still want it to feel like we understand the FBI" —Craig Sweeny, Limitless executive producer

TRAINING PROTOCOLS

Veronica Maxwell, who worked in the Bureau for 27 years, works closely with ABC's Quantico to help properly depict the FBI's training process as well as what it's like to be a female agent like Alex Parrish (Priyanka Chopra). "If they ask me a question about particular operational endeavors, I will tell them, without revealing anything that I think is considered to be [sensitive] information," Maxwell says. "[But] after that, they go about their business with creativity and their artistic license. I'm sensitive to the [fact] that this is TV entertainment."

Savage says the basics of Quantico sound like the real thing—yep, training really is like a cross between boot camp and college—but she questions the Academy's more dramatic moments, including an exercise where the trainees had to dig into one another's pasts, something Savage calls "an invasion." How about undercover agents hiding out in those classes, like Agent Booth (Jake McLaughlin)? "It's so far-fetched," she says. "It makes no sense."

HOPPING AROUND

One of Savage's pet peeves is when FBI analysts on TV rapidly gather all the data they need. "You don't turn on a computer and five minutes later have a whole profile of someone," she says. "Some of the databases are integrated, but you have to go to a lot of different sources to pull together what you need and then synthesize it."

Stories also tend to speed up the timeline on travel. "Agents don't just hop on a plane or drive here and there to do something," Savage says. For example, if someone needed to be interviewed in another state—like when the Blindspot agents headed to Michigan for a case—it would really be up to agents already located there to complete the task. "There's very strict protocol about that," Savage says. "It's more effective, and it works. So that is goofy."

MAKING A CASE

Craig Sweeny, executive producer of Limitless, readily admits plausibility isn't really a concern for him—the show revolves around a magic pill that grants super abilities, after all. Rather, he's focused on believability within the world he's created. So while you have to accept at face value that the series' hero, Brian (Jake McDorman), who takes the drug NZT, has been empowered within the Bureau, you can trust that the tasks around him are being carried out as accurately as possible. "Even though the things we do are not strictly according to the way it works at the FBI," Sweeny says, "we still want it to feel like we understand the FBI, that we understand the ins and outs, the politics of it."

Of course, in a crowded TV market, viewers aren't necessarily concerned with their shows accurately depicting true life, and this is hardly the first crop of shows to feature the FBI. Creators like Sweeny need something extra in order to stand out. "It's tricky for me to say that we have one case that would happen exactly the way it happened at the FBI because every single one of our cases features this character taking NZT, which of course doesn't exist," he says. "But the promise we're making to the audience is that you're not going to see these cases unfold in typical ways."

SHELDON AND AMY'S BIG BANG

Bialik and Parsons

The Big Bang Theory's science-loving sweethearts Sheldon Cooper (Jim Parsons) and Amy Farrah Fowler (Mayim Bialik) are boldly going where they have never gone before!

After dating for five years, the on-again/off-again couple will finally have sex in the December 17 episode of the CBS comedy. And, surprisingly, it's Sheldon who initiates things when faced with the dilemma of what to get Amy for her birthday. "How much longer could we make this poor girl wait?" executive producer Steven Molaro says. "It seemed like the perfect way to resolve the journey they've been on, including the breakup, which started at the end of last season."

Both actors were excited to take this step in their characters' storyline but admit it was unexpected, coming so quickly on the heels of the duo's recent relationship woes. "We do a lot of things on our show, so it's never really been about will Sheldon and Amy have sex?" Bialik says. "But it is a big deal, and Amy is shocked."

The episode also features the return of Bob Newhart as Arthur "Professor Proton" Jeffries, Sheldon's deceased childhood hero. He appears to Sheldon in a dream as a Jedi master who gives wise words of advice. "There is a fear of intimacy with Sheldon, so he's worried he's going to wreck this for her," Parsons says. "Arthur tells him she's the right person, so don't worry about it."

Parsons and Bialik bonded as body makeup was applied for their big scene. "Somebody was covering up my nipple," Parsons says with a laugh. "Better yours than mine!" counters Bialik. "We're both the palest people ever." —Rob Moynihan

WHAT I DO

Rick Le Fevour, Stunt Coordinator

OF ALL THE daredevil tricks that fearless stuntpeople perform, those involving fire can be the most challenging. Rick Le Fevour, stunt coordinator on NBC's Chicago Fire, makes the flames safe for his cast and crew. Here's how. —Ileane Rudolph

How did you get into the stunt business? After high school, I met Casey Tibbs, a world champion rodeo cowboy and stuntman. I joined his Wild West Show and spent a year in Japan. Back in the States, he introduced me around and I started doing stunts in movies, doubling for stars like Andy Garcia, Tom Cruise and Tommy Lee Jones. I also worked on ER and stood in for Kyle Chandler on Early Edition.

What does your current job entail? I break down the action scenes with different departments and our director. Then I hire all the stunt doubles and help choreograph the action to make it exciting and [ensure that] no one gets injured.

Which actors push to do their own stunts? I'm really lucky. We have some very good athletes, including Taylor Kinney and Jesse Spencer. Everyone is gung-ho and they've been trained well in the fire academy. They're confident but not overconfident where they would get hurt.

What's the most ambitious stunt you've organized on Chicago Fire? We had a stuntman get blown out of a window with a fireball behind him and then fall 35 feet to the air bag below. We use very little CG for our fire stunts; 99 percent is actually on camera.

What's the toughest part about working with fire? Shooting outside. On the stage we set a level for the amount of fire we want, and it pretty much stays there. But Chicago is the Windy City, so when the wind blows, it can affect our fire.

Are you afraid of anything? An old stuntman [once] told me that fear was the unknown. Once you know what it feels like to roll a car or be hit with a fireball, that fear is lessoned. If you get past that, you can usually do pretty well.

The Friends pilot; Burrows on the set of Cheers with Ted Danson and Shelley Long; with the cast of Will & Grace

Director's Cut

James Burrows celebrates 1,000 episodes of helming some of TV's top comedies

THROUGHOUT HIS 40-YEAR career, director James Burrows has kept a diary of every TV series he has worked on. Last year, Burrows took count—and realized he had directed close to 1,000 episodes. "I couldn't believe I had done that many," he says. "It went by so fast!" Among his credits, Burrows shot most of Taxi's 114 episodes, cocreated Cheers (and helmed almost all of the comedy's 11-season run), shot the Friends pilot and executive produced and directed 188 episodes of Will & Grace. We spoke with Burrows just before he was set to direct his 1,000th episode, for the upcoming NBC sitcom Crowded. —Michael Schneider

You've enjoyed consistent success for 40 years. What's been your favorite part? I enjoy shoot nights. It's gratifying for me when [audiences] laugh. I'm a theater director. This is what I do.

You're known as the "pilot whisperer" for your track record of turning pilots like Friends into hit series. What's your trick? It's about training a new set of actors to behave as an ensemble and respect one another. You check your ego at the door no matter who you are on one of my shows, and you follow me. We're all in a lifeboat together and we're all rowing.

Is there a moment on a pilot when you realize things are clicking? On every pilot, I do an audience run-through about four days into rehearsal. On Cheers, they went crazy for those characters. I knew on that show, I knew on Friends and I knew on Will & Grace that we had something special. Then there are a couple of pilots I did where a lot of smoke and mirrors were involved. I can take a show that may be mediocre and make it good.

You're famous for quick shoots. A lot of directors do two or three passes for coverage. But I just like to keep it going.

With fewer multicamera sitcoms now airing, is it harder to find shows to work on? No. I did three pilots last year, which is fine for me. Crowded got an order for 12 episodes, and I've done eight of them. I'm just trying to enjoy my time now. I'll get all the comedy pilots, and there will be two or three good ones, and I'll try to glom on to those and see if I can make them great.

What was the show that got away? I was very close to [late NBC president] Brandon Tartikoff. I think he probably gave me the Seinfeld script. I don't know why I didn't do it.

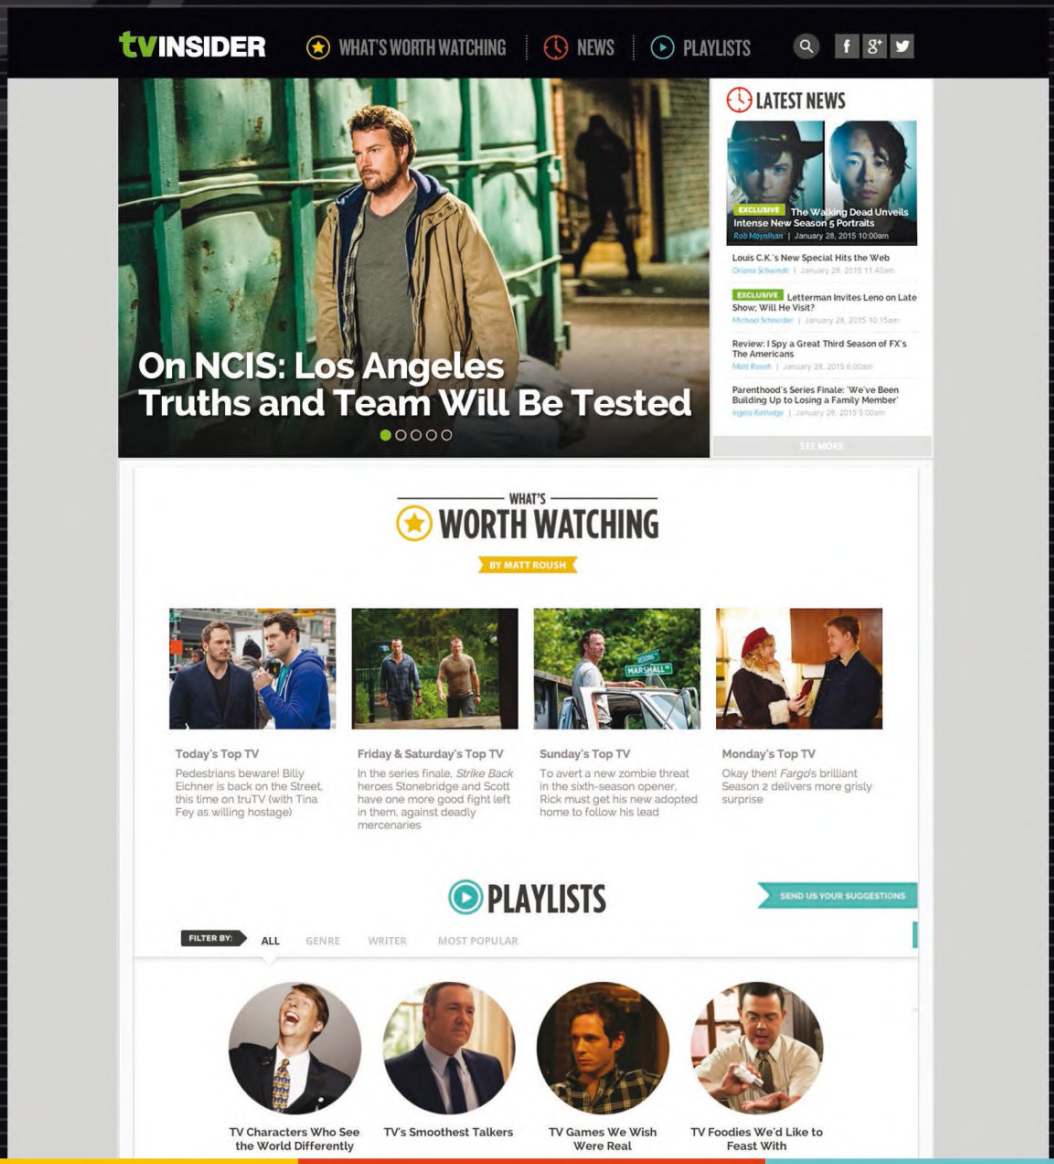

Has comedy changed? No. You gotta make sure they hear the joke, you gotta make sure they see the joke, you gotta make sure you cover the joke, and, hopefully, the joke is funny.

President Obama Runs Wild

Bear meets "the Bear." President Barack Obama—whose aides call his unscheduled walks "the Bear gets loose"—heads to the Alaskan wilderness on the December 17 episode of NBC's Running Wild With Bear Grylls.

The producers of the adventure series are used to fielding requests from actors eager to eat fish eyeballs or jump from helicopters with the British survivalist host. But getting a call from the White House revealing that President Obama was a fan and wanted to do an episode was a huge surprise—and an even bigger challenge.

No stranger to using entertainment to push his message, Obama hoped to combine a scheduled trip to Alaska for a climate-change conference with a visit to the Exit Glacier in the Kenai Fjords National Park, accompanied by Grylls and his cameras. "Bear and the president agree that we need people to think about the importance of the natural world around us," executive producer Chris Grant says.

Of course, when the president goes on an adventure, certain rules apply. Feeding on insects was not on the itinerary, nor were any dangerous stunts. "We had to work with their safety requirements," says executive producer Viki Cacciatore. Ensuring the commander-in-chief's safety required a small army attached to the production, including Secret Service, sniper teams and "the meat blanket," an agent designated to throw himself on the president to protect him if necessary. "It was a little strange initially having 50 Secret Service [agents], helicopters and snipers around, but he was so genuine and family-centered and honest about his struggles that I almost forgot I was with the president of the United States," Grylls says. "We had some very honest and open conversations about family, doubts and faith."

In the episode, airing on the heels of the early December international climate-change summit in Paris, Grylls and Obama also hike the Exit Glacier, one of Alaska's fastest receding. "We talked about the need to protect the world's great wilderness," Grylls says. The president also got a taste of what makes Running Wild famous. "I taught him how to survive bear attacks, how to light a fire [with flint and steel] and how to cook salmon already half chewed by a bear," Grylls reports. "Then he made me a killer s'more, which was a treat indeed." —Ileane Rudolph

TELENOVELA Sneak preview Monday, Dec. 7, 10/9c, NBC

THE BOOBS ARE fake, but the laughs are real. Eva Longoria returns to TV in NBC's Telenovela playing Ana Sofia, steamy star of the Spanish soap opera Las Leyes de Pasión, where the only thing bigger than the melodrama is the wind machine. The NBC comedy series gets a two-episode preview December 7 prior to its January 4 premiere. Longoria gave us the scoop.

You've rarely acted since Desperate Housewives, instead devoting your time to producing, directing and political activism. Why is Telenovela the show that got you back on the air? I hit the lottery with Housewives, but when it ended, I thought everybody needed to cleanse their palate of Gabrielle Solis. I wanted to go away for a while. In fact, I was only intending to produce Telenovela, but when our writers, Chrissy Pietrosh and Jessica Goldstein (Cougar Town), turned in the first draft of the pilot, I said, "I must play this part!" It was just too fabulous.

Latinos take their telenovelas very seriously. Will they respond well to a spoof? This is a sacred genre to Latinos, but we're in no way making fun of it. This is a great big love letter, and Latinos will be so thrilled this is happening on a major broadcast network. Besides, it's what happens behind the scenes of our soap that's crazy and over the top. And it's not so far-fetched. There was a famous incident at a Venezuelan soap where the star was being slowly poisoned to death by her evil assistant. This is real life!

Did you also draw upon your stint as Latina crackpot Isabella Braña on The Young and the Restless? Oh, you bet. When I was on that show, there were two stars who refused to work together—and they were in the same storyline! One refused to go to set unless the other one got there first. They fought over who had the closer parking spot. I was like, "Whaaat?" Who knew I'd someday be drawing upon that for inspiration? [Laughs] I should have been taking notes!

Ashford

Days Goes to the Matt

SO WHAT IF he was killed in an elevator crash? NBC's Days of Our Lives is bringing back Jack Deveraux—the lovable rapscallion played by Matthew Ashford—who was last seen in 2012 when he sacrificed his life to save daughter Abigail (Kate Mansi). Sorry, romance fans, a big Jack and Jen (Melissa Reeves) reunion appears unlikely, since Ashford has only signed for a five-episode arc. Still, the news is surprising: Last summer, exec producer Ken Corday swore to the press there'd be no more Days characters coming back from the dead. Is the boss going back on his word already? Or will Jack be seen in spirit form? It's all top secret for now, so we'll just have to wait...and wait. Ashford reported to work right after Thanksgiving but—because Days shoots nearly half a year in advance—he won't hit the air until late spring.

Transparent

A tragicomic modern family in states of emotional transition

Season premiere Friday, Dec. 11, Amazon Prime Video

There's a lovely moment late in Transparent's bittersweet second season for its central character, Maura (Jeffrey Tambor), born Mort and still dealing with the ramifications of coming out as trans to her kin last year. She pores over childhood photos that have been digitally regendered, altered to show the boy from an unhappy past now bedecked as the girl Maura always saw within herself.

"Just imagine if you could have been her your whole life," muses one of Maura's wayward daughters in an exchange that's unusually tender for this emotionally overwrought dramedy. Truth is, Maura never stops imagining it, just as she never stops seeking affirmation, affection and connection in a world that doesn't know what to make of her and from a self-absorbed family that can't see past its own exasperating hang-ups.

Tambor's revelatory, Emmy-winning performance as Maura has only deepened in its doleful and wry dignity, and if there's any complaint about the 10-episode sophomore season, it's that quite often there's just not enough Maura.

Creator Jill Soloway's decision to expand the show's worldview pays off at times, including in flashbacks depicting Maura's family's flight from 1930s Berlin (oddly with everyone speaking unaccented English), a proudly hedonistic haven for sexual progressives under threat of Nazi oppression.

Maura's beyond-free-spirit youngest daughter, Ali (punk princess Gaby Hoffmann), who has mystical visions of this past, discovers research on something called "inherited trauma" in one's DNA, a legacy of pain and anxiety that may explain why she and her sibs are such aggravating messes, including Sarah (Amy Landecker), neurotic, divorced and pathologically dissatisfied; and feckless Josh (Jay Duplass), trying to form a family unit with a pregnant rabbi (Kathryn Hahn) and a grown son he never knew (Alex MacNicoll). Kvetching over all is Maura's widowed ex, Shelly (the great Judith Light), whose appetite for life and longing for the Mort who no longer exists remain undimmed.

When Transparent dwells on the younger generation's sexually charged escapades, the angst feels forced in a way it never does with their beloved, bewildering "Moppa" (hybrid of momma and poppa). It's heartbreaking when Maura can't feel welcome even at an all-women music festival, but she never loses hope. Nor should she. Like Transparent, she's transfixing. ★★★★½

Syfy Raises Its Game

The Expanse

Series premiere Monday–Tuesday, Dec. 14–15, 10/9c, Syfy
Timeslot premiere: Tuesday, Dec. 22, 10/9c, Syfy

I've been waiting eons, it seems, to get lost in space with Syfy again. Sophisticated, sexy and suspenseful, bracingly complex in its interplanetary world building and sociopolitical intrigues, the expansive The Expanse has an ambitious scope and seriousness of intent that compares favorably with the legendary Battlestar Galactica reboot.

After watching four episodes, I'm especially drawn to the cosmic adventures of the surviving crew of a rugged ice trawler, led by scrappy Jim Holden (Steven Strait), who's caught up in a cold war between Earth and a colonized Mars that also involves revolutionaries representing space-dwelling "Belters" (as in asteroid) in a possibly terrorist Outer Planets Alliance.

Elsewhere, on a station with a distinctly Blade Runner space-noir feel, rascally detective Josephus Miller (Thomas Jane, in hat-wearing Bogart mode) tracks the disappearance of an heiress caught up in the OPA. On Earth, a ruthless United Nations official (24's Shohreh Aghdashloo) wonders if some new threat is stirring things up in the solar system.

Hard to say where it's all going, but anyone with an interest in serious sci-fi should strap in for the long ride. ★★★½☆

Childhood's End

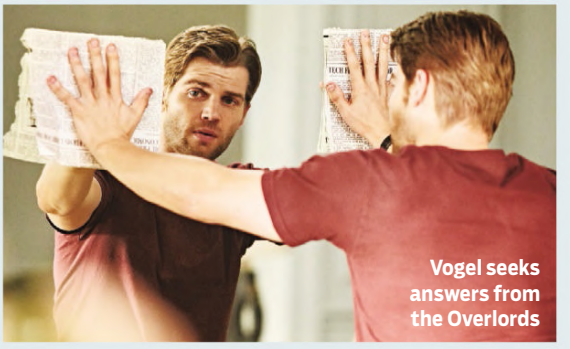

Miniseries premiere Monday, Dec. 14, 8/7c, Syfy

Taking familiar and perhaps too-comforting human form, emissaries from an alien race herald a new "golden age of man" on Earth—free of war, poverty, injustice—while we justifiably wonder if the absorbing three-part adaptation of Arthur C. Clarke's visionary Childhood's End, along with the premiere of The Expanse, might signal a new golden age for Syfy. (See page 38.)

Like a deluxe edition of The Twilight Zone, with echoes of Close Encounters of the Third Kind, The Day the Earth Stood Still, Children of the Damned and even Rosemary's Baby in its sprawling and (at first) quietly sinister narrative, this fable reminds us that when something looks too good to be true, it usually is.

Finally freed from that silly dome, Mike Vogel warmly stars as Ricky, a levelheaded Missouri farmer chosen to be the humans' conduit to the initially unseen "Supervisor for Earth" Karellen (a mellifluous Charles Dance), quelling fears about the so-called Overlords' intentions as peace begets prosperity. Life is good, but as a provocative consequence, mankind is turning away from both scientific inquiry and faith in God.

My grade is incomplete, as only two of the three nights were available by my deadline. But if intent to watch to Childhood's end means anything, don't miss this miniseries. ★★★☆☆

Vogel seeks answers from the Overlords

Elba as Luther, obsessed as ever

Luther

Thursday, Dec. 17, 9/8c, BBC America

RETURNING FROM A two-year hiatus, John Luther (the electrifying Idris Elba) is first seen on a rooftop ledge, conversing with a ghost. It's a metaphor for a man who literally lives on the edge—of a cliff, in self-imposed exile—until a cannibalistic serial killer, and a murder abroad that he takes very personally, revive the career of a copper as reckless and volatile as any criminal.

When he gives chase, you'd better run. There's no resisting the arresting Luther, whose one-night movie comeback is as psychologically intense and disturbingly nerve-racking as fans could hope (or dread). You'll be left wanting more of this fearless and implacable avenger, ducking hit men as he seeks justice. Still, there's something to be said, in an age of overlong and overindulgent binges, for the economy and ferocity of this taut urban thriller. ★★★★☆

REBELS WITH A CAUSE

The Star Wars galaxy continues to expand on TV...and it's awakening a new generation of fans

BY DAMIAN HOLBROOK

SITHS ABOUT TO GET REAL, PEOPLE!

As the long-awaited Star Wars: The Force Awakens hyperdrives into theaters this month, the action on Disney XD's Star Wars Rebels is heating up too. Just don't call it a kids' show.

"We do get rather dark and more serious this season, because the story has to go that way," teases executive producer Dave Filoni. Set five years before 1977's original, A New Hope, this CGI series about a band of do-gooders in the early battle against Darth Vader's tyranny not only balances the grim realities of civil war with blasts of goofy humor, but it is also the network's No. 1 show among adults 18–49 and a canon-expanding essential for everyone obsessed with that galaxy far, far away—no matter their age.

"For my generation, it's the norm to be into Star Wars," says Filoni, 41. "There was no such thing as a 'Star Wars fan.' You were just a kid lucky enough to grow up with this awesome entertainment." Fittingly, it was Filoni's lifelong affinity for all things Jedi that landed him within the beloved franchise's expanded universe on TV.

"I thought it was a practical joke," he says of the 2005 call he got from Lucasfilm Animation while working on Nickelodeon's Avatar: The Last Airbender. "I almost hung up on them because I thought it was my friends giving me a hard time." Instead, Filoni was interviewed by George Lucas himself, who immediately hired him to direct Star Wars: The Clone Wars, 2008's big-screen animated flick that takes place between Attack of the Clones and Revenge of the Sith. After that, Filoni transitioned to overseeing Cartoon Network's The Clone Wars, the ongoing tale of clone troopers, Obi-Wan Kenobi and the pre–dark side Anakin Skywalker. Yet unlike the Jedi Council's most notorious turncoat, Filoni proudly states, "Since '05, I've been quite literally studying the ways of the Force year in, year out, trying to improve my skills."

The Seventh Sister (voiced by Gellar) and Kanan (Prinze)

Seven years after Filoni's first meeting with Lucas, in another corner of the galaxy, big-screen film producer and writer Simon Kinberg (X-Men: First Class, The Martian) was earning his X-wings via a two-week powwow with a crew of writers and consultants—including Empire Strikes Back and Return of the Jedi scribe Lawrence Kasdan—all recruited by Lucasfilm before its sale to Disney to map out the next wave of Star Wars stories. "We operated like a little TV writers' room and just talked about what we would love to see in future Star Wars sagas," recalls Kinberg, a creative consultant on The Force Awakens.

The confab also led to his alliance with Kiri Hart, head of development at Lucasfilm, and the birth of Rebels. "She sent me an email afterward saying, 'We're thinking about doing a new animated show. I know you're excited about writing things that your kids can grab hold of, so do you think you'd be interested?'"

One excited reply yes—"in all caps and with 10 exclamation points"—later and, Kinberg says, "That was the beginning."

So, like Han and Luke before them, Kinberg and Filoni united to form what Kinberg calls "a family unit crossed with the A-Team" for Disney XD's 2014 pilot Star Wars Rebels: Spark of Rebellion. The story featured de facto leader Kanan Jarrus (voiced by Freddie Prinze Jr.), a cowboy Jedi who survived the Emperor's Order 66 decree to kill off his entire kind; Twi'lek Hera Syndulla (Vanessa Marshall), an ace pilot of the spacecraft The Ghost and newly minted captain of the rebel cell known as Phoenix Squadron; Sabine Wren (Tiya Sircar), a Mandalorian graffiti artist with mad explosives skills and a murky past; Zeb (Steve Blum), a hulking, smart-mouth alien sworn to making the Empire pay for slaughtering his species; and Ezra Bridger (Taylor Gray), a teen grifter from the planet Lothal.

Currently in its wildly entertaining second season (Season 3 will premiere in 2016)—and filled with animation inspired by the original trilogy's late conceptual designer, Ralph McQuarrie—Rebels' deepening mythology is largely linked to the nascent Jedi powers and orphan status of the Luke Skywalker–esque Ezra.

"He's got some more wisdom now. He knows how to use the Force a little bit," explains Gray, teasing a "huge" upcoming storyline about Ezra's mother and father, long believed to have been executed for speaking out against the Empire when he was 7. "This whole story with his parents has been looming over him. He's accomplished a lot over the course of the first season and has found his own family with the rebel group," the actor continues. "The one question that's still unanswered for him is: What happened to his parents?" The answer to that, Gray hints, "will determine what Ezra's fate is."

In other major storylines this season, Kevin McKidd of Grey's Anatomy will voice a new Mandalorian character, potentially linked to Sabine's soon-to-be-revealed backstory ("She's as important to the series as Ezra, as far as who this show is about," Filoni hints). The Jedi-hunting Inquisitor known as the Seventh Sister (voiced by Prinze's wife, Sarah Michelle Gellar) is set to cause trouble for Kanan. And Ahsoka Tano (Ashley Eckstein), Anakin Skywalker's former Padawan introduced in The Clone Wars, may get the goods on her old master. Despite a handful of appearances on Rebels, the fan favorite has yet to untangle her ties to Darth Vader, nor has it been revealed why Ahsoka was never seen in the prequel films or what she's been up to since leaving the Jedi Order during the Clone Wars. Given that we'll definitely be seeing Vader (voiced by James Earl Jones, no less) again, along with Frank Oz's legendary Yoda (who has previously only been heard on screen) and at least one major legacy character from the films, this could mean that we will finally have some answers about Ahsoka's missing 15 years.

"I want to know too!" Eckstein exclaims. "I do hope that we get to explore that someday, but at least we get the story that we're [building] to now: more Ahsoka, more Darth Vader. I can promise it'll blow people's minds."

Filoni, meanwhile, is intent on not blowing any future plot twists, keeping them more guarded than plans for a Death Star. When asked what lies ahead, he simply allows that the whole Ghost crew is in for a wild ride. "The dark side is growing...and the more ripples Ezra makes, the more powerful he becomes."

It seems the Force is strong with this one too.

Televised Wars

A timeline of small-screen specials

The Star Wars Holiday Special (Nov. 17, 1978, CBS) With two hours full of creepy Wookiees and head-scratching musical numbers, it's no wonder the much-maligned celebration of Life Day on Chewie's home planet of Kashyyyk aired only once. Not even a Sith Lord could take more of Bea Arthur's singing or Harvey Korman in drag as a space-age Julia Child.

A New Hope's U.S. network TV debut (Feb. 26, 1984, CBS) Almost six years after opening in theaters, the original movie premiered on TV...and got trounced by ABC's trashy miniseries Lace.

The Ewok Adventure (Nov. 25, 1984, ABC) On the heels of Return of the Jedi came this spinoff flick about siblings (Eric Walker and Aubree Miller) rescued by Wicket the Ewok (Warwick Davis) after being stranded on the forest moon. A year later, Miller and Davis headlined the sequel, Ewoks: The Battle for Endor.

Star Wars: Ewoks and Star Wars: Droids, the Adventures of R2-D2 and C-3PO (Sept. 7, 1985, ABC) The cute and furry ones returned, along with Luke Skywalker's favorite robots, this time as Saturday-morning cartoons. Ewoks was set before Return of the Jedi, and Droids took place between Revenge of the Sith and A New Hope.

▶ Friends: "The One With the Princess Leia Fantasy" (Sept. 19, 1996, NBC) Jennifer Aniston's Rachel set the bar for thousands of Comic-Con cosplayers—and fulfilled even more fanboys' dreams—when she donned the enslaved royal's gold bikini for her Jedi-fetishist boyfriend, Ross (David Schwimmer).

▼ Star Wars: Clone Wars (2003–05, Cartoon Network) Bridging the space between Attack of the Clones and Revenge of the Sith, these shorts were animated in the conventional 2-D cartoon style. The more sophisticated, 3-D series Star Wars: The Clone Wars ran from 2008–14.

Robot Chicken Star Wars (June 17, 2007, Adult Swim) In the first of three specials, Seth Green and his stop-motion minions spoofed the films using action figures, some of which were more expressive than Hayden Christensen.

▼ Family Guy's "Blue Harvest" (Sept. 23, 2007, Fox) With permission from Lucasfilm (and a nod to Jedi's fake working title), Peter Griffin retold A New Hope to the gang during a power outage. Episodes parodying Empire and Jedi aired in 2010 and 2011.

Today anchors dress as Star Wars characters (Oct. 30, 2009, NBC) We're pretty sure the morning show's Halloween salute caused a great disturbance in the Force, thanks, in part, to Matt Lauer's awful Luke Skywalker wig.

LEGO Star Wars Yoda Chronicles (2013, Cartoon Network) and Droid Tales (2015, Disney XD) The minifigures struck back, first in a trio of animated specials about the diminutive Jedi master's clashes with Darth Sidious and then in a five-part series featuring the metallic Laurel and Hardy's comical accounts of the films and Rebels' first season.

▼ Phineas & Ferb: Star Wars (July 22, 2014, Disney Channel) Like Family Guy, this nod clowned on the events of A New Hope with the cartoon stepbrothers, their pet platypus, Perry, and other characters filling the roles made famous in the film. Oh, and there were musical numbers. May the Ferb be with us all. —DH

Fresh Off the Boat

TUESDAY, DEC. 8 8:30/7:30c, ABC

ON FRESH OFF the Boat—ABC's hit comedy about the Huangs, an Asian-American family living in Orlando during the '90s—nothing is ever good enough for mom Jessica (Constance Wu). With the holidays upon us, then, it's only fitting that she'll cast her critical gaze toward Jolly Old St. Nick. "Jessica loves Christmas, but she thinks Santa has been coasting by for too long," executive producer Nahnatchka Khan says. "Her new version of Santa has an advanced degree from Princeton and employs the laws of physics to make his sleigh fly. She wants him to be management, not labor." As for how Kris Kringle 2.0 will manifest himself to her three boys? "[Let's just say] there are a lot of prosthetics in this episode," Khan hints. "And some characters look different than they normally look, and that's pretty fun." —Ingela Ratledge

'TIS THE SEASON FOR...

...the merriest holiday episodes, specials, movies and more

The Originals

THURSDAY, DEC. 10 9/8c, The CW

IT'S A CHRISTMAS miracle in New Orleans! "After months of estrangement and the threat of war, the Mikaelsons gather with their extended family for a rare moment of holiday joy," executive producer Michael Narducci says of The Originals' Yuletide installment/fall finale. That isn't the only miracle, jokes Phoebe Tonkin, who plays werewolf/vampire–hybrid mama Hayley (center). "This episode was the first time every actor on the show shot together," she says. For the scene above, Tonkin explains, "Our only direction was 'open gifts and look like you're having fun.' But all the prop presents were empty, so we kept ad-libbing to make each other laugh." —Ileane Rudolph

Brooklyn Nine-Nine

SUNDAY, DEC. 13 8:30, 7:30, Fox

YIPPEE KI-YAY! The hot Fox comedy pays tribute to Die Hard as Jake (Andy Samberg), Charles (Joe Lo Truglio, near right, with Samberg) and Gina (Chelsea Peretti) get trapped in Goodwin's department store during the holiday rush with a gang of armed robbers. "Suffice it to say, there will be crawling through vents," says executive producer Dan Goor. The episode also features Captain Holt (Andre Braugher), Amy (Melissa Fumero) and Rosa (Stephanie Beatriz) participating in a polar bear swim and includes a return appearance from major-crimes detective and precinct headache the Vulture (Dean Winters). Bah, humbug. —Rob Moynihan

The Middle

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 9 8/7c, ABC

IT'S SUE HECK'S (Eden Sher, center) first winter back from college, and she has just one item on her Christmas wish list. "Sue loves being home," executive producer Eileen Heisler says, "and she is determined to take a holiday photo in bed with her family to post online for her friends to see on Christmas morning." But, as expected, her father (Neil Flynn), mother (Patricia Heaton) and two brothers (Charlie McDermott and Atticus Shaffer) aren't making it easy for her to achieve her goal. And she's not even making them wear ugly Christmas sweaters. —Aubry D'Arminio

Becoming Santa Dec. 12, 8/7c, Lifetime Family Ties vets Michael Gross and Meredith Baxter reunite to channel another iconic pair, Mr. and Mrs. Claus. But what will they do, baby, when they invite their daughter's (Laura Bell Bundy, right) unsuspecting boyfriend to visit the North Pole for a holly jolly meet and greet?

On the Twelfth Day of Christmas Dec. 12, 8/7c, Hallmark Channel Small-town gal Maggie (Brooke Nevin) attempts to win over her longtime crush, Mitch (Robin Dunne), and cure his holiday blues by anonymously devising a dozen Christmas-themed tasks for him to complete. (Bringing him a Starbucks Peppermint Mocha might have been easier.)

Debbie Macomber's Dashing Through the Snow Dec. 13, 9/8c, Hallmark Movies & Mysteries Perhaps you've wondered what might happen if two fetching single strangers (Meghan Ory and Andrew Walker) were "forced" to share a rental car as they drove home for the holidays. Well, here's your answer. (Hint: No dangling-mistletoe air freshener is required.)

Wish Upon a Christmas Dec. 13, 9/8c, Lifetime Amelia (Larisa Oleynik) is a ruthless executive brought in to streamline (read: downsize) a struggling family-run ornament business. That is, until she falls for the company's owner, Jesse (Aaron Ashmore), and her heart grows three sizes. (Bonus: Alan Thicke plays her dad!)

A Very Chrisley Christmas 2 Dec. 22, 10/9c, USA This might be the only household in America where the Christmas goose is actually golden. Atlanta-area millionaire Todd Chrisley and his reality-TV family offer viewers a glimpse at their over-the-top approach to holiday merrymaking.

The Kennedy Center Honors Dec. 29, 9/8c, CBS The honorees include singer-songwriter Carole King, filmmaker George Lucas, actress Rita Moreno, conductor Seiji Ozawa and Emmy winner Cicely Tyson—all of whom will be feted for their many contributions to culture at the star-packed affair.

Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve With Ryan Seacrest 2016 Dec. 31, 8/7c, ABC Breaking from tradition, this year's special will help usher in the new year with an evening of live chess and spoken-word poetry. Just kidding! One Direction headlines, Carrie Underwood performs and Seacrest hosts his tail off, per usual. —Ingela Ratledge

Life in Pieces

THURSDAY, DEC. 17 8:30/7:30c, CBS

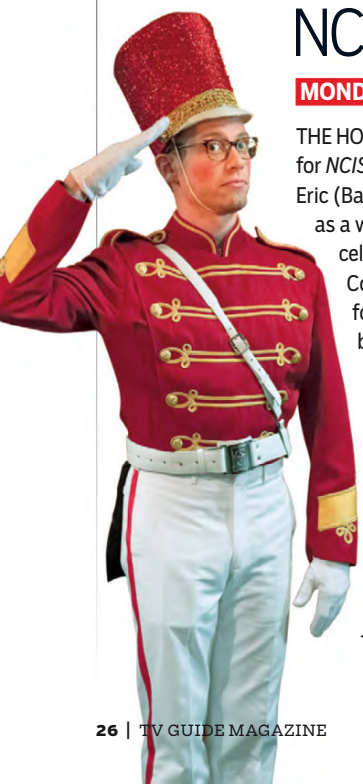

JUST CALL THEM Scrooge. Greg and Jen (Colin Hanks and Zoe Lister-Jones, above) break the news to his parents that they're shirking family tradition to spend the holidays at home with their new baby, rather than with the extended Short clan. "Mom Joan [Dianne Wiest] lays a guilt trip on Greg until he invites her and dad [James Brolin] to sleep over at their place on Christmas Eve," explains exec producer Justin Adler. Throw in an extremely bouncy air mattress and you've got a nightmare before Christmas. Quips Adler, "Dianne and James performed all their own stunts." —Gregory E. Miller

Arrow

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 9 8/7c, The CW

IT'S BEGINNING TO look a lot like Christmas in Star City, so the team is off to a "big holiday party" that will feature two surprising romantic reveals, promises executive producer Wendy Mericle. But since this is Oliver Queen (Stephen Amell, below, with Emily Bett Rickards) and Co. we're talking about, expect a shoot-out and "some serious heartbreak" too. Apparently, heroes don't get a Christmas break: On December 8, Ollie's pal Barry Allen (Grant Gustin) contends with the return of Mark Hamill's the Trickster for The Flash's harrowing holiday-themed episode. —Damian Holbrook

MONDAY, DEC. 14 10/9, CBS

THE HOLIDAY SEASON has a merry start for NCIS: Los Angeles techie and LARP lover Eric (Barrett Foa, left) when he dresses up as a wooden soldier for a Toys for Tots celebration. But field agent Sam (LL Cool J) isn't so lucky—and his plans for a quiet family dinner are ruined by a last-minute case that culminates in a chase through a mall's Christmas Village. "Sam's in a real Grinchy mood," executive producer R. Scott Gemmill says, "and he wants everything closed ASAP so he can pick up his son at the airport." If he has to crush some giant candy canes or push a few elves to do it, so be it. —Aubry D'Arminio

In particular, dad Dre (Anthony Anderson, above right) will be faced with the stark contrast between his own humble upbringing and his current, ultra-affluent reality in suburban Los Angeles. Good thing his parents, Pops and Ruby (Laurence Fishburne, above left, and Jenifer Lewis), are on hand for historical reference. "The Johnsons are going to be navigating how Christmas has changed over the years," Barris says. "Specifically, the differences between how Dre celebrated as a child versus how his kids celebrate now." Cue the teaching moment—with a big red bow on top! —Ingela Ratledge

Home is where the heart is in NBC's movie based on the childhood of Tennessee titan Dolly Parton

BY KAREN ROSEN

DURING A BREAK on the Georgia set of Dolly Parton's Coat of Many Colors, Alyvia Alyn Lind—who portrays the legendary country singer at the tender age of 9—can't seem to get a certain song out of her head. She sits on a stool, pumping her arms to music that only she can hear, and later confesses, "I was dancing to 'Shake It Off' from Taylor Swift."

Big Dolly, as the superstar is known on the set, is in stitches over this. "That was kind of a betrayal for Dolly, wasn't it?" Parton says. "Why wasn't she singing 'Jolene' or something? I'm joking! That's a cute song too. I'm sure she needed to shake it off between takes."

Actually, the scene Lind just wrapped was a happy one in which Little Dolly tries on the titular unfinished coat, thanks to her mama "sewin' every piece with love," as the classic 1971 song goes. But the rags-really-can-be-riches tale weaves in deep tragedies that the family couldn't simply shake off (including a sibling loss that devastated the loving brood) during Parton's trying childhood in Locust Ridge, Tennessee, in 1955.

"There should be a hankie alert before the movie, but you'll laugh a lot too," says Pamela K. Long, Coat's writer and one of its executive producers. "We get to understand how Dolly became Dolly. She sees she has a place out in the whole big world, because how do you go from where she came from to where she [is]?" The faith-based tale is one of four two-hour projects that Parton, now 69, and her colleagues pitched to NBC. "I always had the idea that a lot of my songs would make great movies," Parton says. "They all tell stories."

The second movie is slated to be the man-stealing missive Jolene, due out next fall, with a script by John Sacret Young (China Beach). "The Seeker," one of her most spiritual songs, forms the basis of the third, with a fourth still being determined.

But "Coat of Many Colors" remains her longtime favorite. In the classic tune, Parton's mama compares her garment made from scraps to Joseph's in the Bible, making Little Dolly proud to wear it. Parton remembers: "It was very gaudy and loud and bright. The kids all made fun of me, and I couldn't understand that. I was embarrassed and hurt and was mad at Mama because I felt she'd deceived me."

Lind

Parton says she's turned down many previous offers to turn the ballad into a movie, but doing it now "just seemed right—bringing back some family values and the anti-bullying [message]," she says. "I just wanted it to be an inspiration. Remember how we used to love The Waltons and Little House on the Prairie? This movie's got a lot of those elements in it."

For Coat, Parton contributes an intro and epilogue and narrates a few montages (as well as executive produces). And it's clear from her verve that Little Dolly is definitely cut from the same cloth as Big Dolly. "One day I was in the hair-and-makeup room," Lind recalls, "and they just did this one curl up, and I looked at a picture of Dolly [see previous page], and we looked like twins! It was so crazy! I could not see any difference between us."

Lind was picked from nationwide auditions to play the young Parton. She'd only turned 8 when filming began and was thrilled to be "playing older." Like Big Dolly ("Well, I'm not very big, but I'm a little bigger than her right now"), she pens songs and performs for her family, but she's in awe of Parton: "How does she write such touching, meaningful songs like that?" In the film, Lind and an unseen Parton will duet on a new song the latter wrote called "Angel Hill."

Jennifer Nettles, another singer/songwriter who made her name with the multiplatinum-selling Atlanta duo Sugarland and recently played Roxie Hart in Broadway's Chicago, sent in an audition tape for the role of Avie Lee Parton. "We didn't even know she acted," Parton says. "I said, 'That's Mama.'" Nettles jokes that she "might have carpal tunnel after all this fake sewing! I go from killing my boyfriend and blaming my husband [in Chicago] to playing a good Christian mama. Hey—that's range."

Nettles also gets to sing in the film. "I loved that it is a faith-based story but told within the context of a more current family," she says. "We're not talking B.C. here; we're talking in the past 60 years. They all go on their journeys and their own search for themselves."

Nettles's costar heartily agrees with her on that point. "The beautiful thing about the movie is that Dolly learns to love those who bullied her, and she brings out the best in them," says Ricky Schroder (NYPD Blue), who plays Parton's father, Lee. Schroder says that Parton, already the No. 1 artist on his wife Andrea's playlist, shared with him that her father, a tobacco farmer, "loved the ladies and the ladies loved him."

Parton's real-life younger sis Stella appears as a church lady/busybody who initially brings the box of rags to the Partons. "My sister called and said, 'There's a part in here. Do you want to read for it?'" Stella says. "I said, 'Well, sure.' She said, 'You can't be pretty in it.'" Stella also assisted the prop masters in making homemade toys like the ones she had as a child and helped the actors understand her family. "Poverty of mind is a lot worse than poverty of the pocketbook," Stella says, "so we were very rich, as far as I could tell, because we had loving, nurturing parents." Through her mama's love, Dolly learned to forgive, but she'll never forget.

THEY COME IN PEACE

The aliens among us are here to make everything better—or so they say—in Syfy's adaptation of the classic 1953 novel Childhood's End

BY MICHAEL LOGAN

LONG BEFORE THE world of sci-fi and fantasy was taken over by Terminators and Avengers and Transformers, it was all about big ideas. And none were more mind-expanding than those found in Childhood's End, the 1953 novel by Arthur C. Clarke, about a peaceful invasion of Earth by aliens from outer space. These seemingly benign beings unite the globe into one blissful nation, ending social injustice and eradicating disease and starvation. There is no longer any want or need. Fear is a thing of the past. In short, our planet has become Utopia. But at what price?

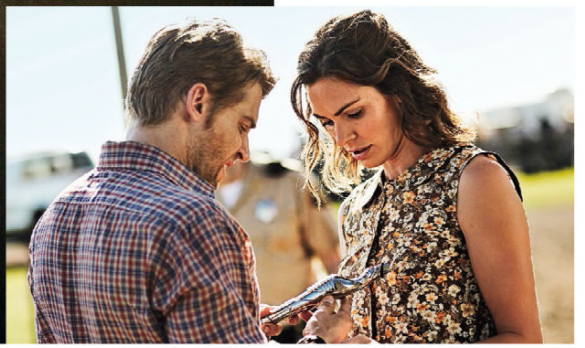

Though Clarke's landmark work sold big and was highly acclaimed, it was widely considered unfilmable—even the late, great director Stanley Kubrick couldn't make it happen—but it has finally been brought to the screen in a three-night Syfy event. And it would appear to be right on time.

"Childhood's End is more relevant now than in the 1950s," says Game of Thrones vet Charles Dance, who plays Karellen, the alien Overlord and self-proclaimed "Supervisor for Earth" who ushers in the new world order. "We human beings in 2015 are really f---ing things up with our wars, our politics and our pollution, and Clarke saw this happening over 60 years ago."

The author also predicted we'd be incapable of solving this hot mess. "Earthlings try to sort things out, but inevitably we make a pig's ear of it, don't we?" says Dance. "You can see why we'd be open to some superbeing coming down here to fix all our problems, since we clearly cannot do it ourselves."

As prescient as Clarke's novel was, adjustments were necessary for the series. In the book, Karellen chooses Rikki Stormgren, the sixtyish head of the United Nations, as his human ambassador and uses him to relay his messages of benevolence to the people of Earth. In the Syfy version, Ricky (played by Mike Vogel of Under the Dome) is a thirtysomething farmer living in Missouri.

"We had to address the fact that we no longer look at our world leaders as being the best of us the way we did back in the '50s," executive producer Matthew Graham says. "Instead, we went Spielbergian with Ricky, making him a blue-collar everyman. The relationship between him and Karellen is now like that of the Old Testament God and his prophets, reminding us that God tended to pick the shepherd boy, not the prince."

Speaking of God, if Karellen is the new supreme being, what becomes of religion? According to Vogel, this was a big topic of conversation down in Melbourne, Australia, where the miniseries was filmed. "Matthew and I hashed this out over many nights on the rooftop of our hotel—with probably way too many cocktails!" the actor says with a laugh. "As a man of faith, I believe the idea of an alien invasion—if it were to happen—would neither negate nor support one's belief in God. But whether you are an atheist or a person of deep, deep faith, this will certainly spawn a wealth of discussion."

So will Karellen's appearance. During the alien takeover and for many years afterward, the Overlord does not reveal his true physical self in order to prevent worldwide panic. (You'll understand why when we finally get a look at him at the end of Night 1!) Even Dance was unnerved when he saw himself under all the heavy Karellen prosthetics. "I fell asleep in the makeup chair and woke up four hours later, looked in the mirror and said, 'My God!' " Dance recalls. "It was genuinely shocking—a brilliant piece of work by some very clever artists."

Karellen even hides his presence when communicating with Ricky, though at one point the crafty farmer manages to take his photograph. He then shares it with his wife, Ellie (Chicago Fire's Daisy Betts), but together they decide not to go public with it.

"They don't want to rock the boat," Betts says. "Either they know the world isn't ready to see what Karellen really looks like or they don't want to be the ones to break the disturbing news." Ellie also has personal reasons for keeping mum. When Karellen picks her husband as his go-to guy—an opportunity that sends Ricky all the way to the White House—news crews and curiosity seekers bombard the Stormgren farm and camp out for years. "Altruism only goes so far," says Betts. "Ellie is putting her own needs before the greater good. She's like, 'Why did Karellen have to pick my husband?' She just wants her old life back."

"Childhood's End is more relevant now than in the 1950s. We human beings in 2015 are really f---ing things up"
-Charles Dance

She won't be alone in that. As the mini leaps forward several years, we meet Rupert Boyce (Julian McMahon, Nip/Tuck), a revered doctor in South Africa who has gathered a wide array of animal species and sent them off to Karellen's mother ship—not knowing what the aliens truly have in mind for the planet. By the time Boyce realizes something's pretty damn funky, it may be too late.

"This is the ultimate 'Be careful what you wish for' scenario," Vogel says. "We might think we want Utopia, but what happens when there's no longer anything to strive for, nothing that makes each of us unique? What happens to art, to creativity, to thinking? I suspect the viewers will be like Ricky. When they realize the true implications of Utopia, they'll be thinking, 'Thanks…but no thanks!' "

MICHAEL BUBLÉ'S CHRISTMAS IN HOLLYWOOD

THURSDAY, DEC. 10 8/7c, NBC

Let's make one thing clear: When it comes to his annual holiday variety hour, Michael Bublé is not messing around. "You have no idea how much work it takes to make this a television event worth watching every year," the Grammy winner says. "The favors I owe afterward, the money that I spend. But you know what? I'm really proud of it!"

Which is why "there's a very good chance" this fifth installment, filmed in Los Angeles, is likely to be the singer's last. "Sometimes you've got to leave the people wanting more," he says with a laugh. His plan to do just that? Belting out seasonal standards with musical guests like Sharon Jones & the Dap-Kings and Tori Kelly, plus comedy bits featuring William Shatner and Jay Leno. "I love making people laugh and being the butt of the joke," Bublé says. He'll also share the stage for the first time with fellow Canadian superstar Celine Dion. "I'm hoping the duet is as beautiful as people would expect," he says. "Tell me, where do you go from here?" —Ingela Ratledge

SUPERGIRL

MONDAY, DEC. 7 8/7c, CBS

EXTRA! EXTRA! READ all about how Mehcad Brooks is turning DC Comics' most famous photographer, Jimmy Olsen, into a seriously smokin' man of action when a massive earthquake hits National City. —Damian Holbrook

This ain't our typical Jimmy Olsen. He even goes by James now and is definitely not the nerdy guy running around taking pictures! [Laughs] That's coming. We actually talked about that because I had said, "You know, there's no camera here." It's weird to see Jimmy Olsen without a big camera around his neck.

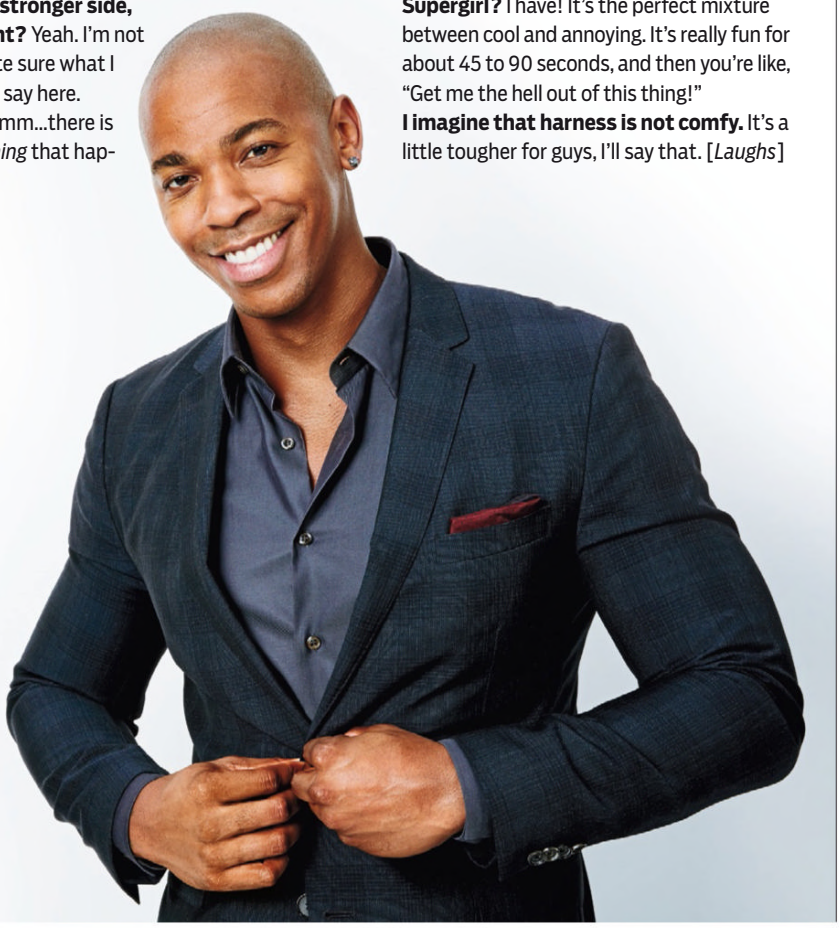

Since the show began, James has been a shoulder for Kara (Melissa Benoist), but this week, he's showing his stronger side, right? Yeah. I'm not quite sure what I can say here. Hmmm...there is a thing that happens with Kara where she's not able to be [Supergirl], so she and James go around the city helping people in the way that only they can. James really takes charge.

Does this alter how Kara sees him? It strengthens their relationship and strengthens James. He's always supporting her, but then he starts doing really heroic things...like somebody other people can depend on.

That could complicate the relationship between James and Lucy Lane (Jenna Dewan-Tatum). It's getting juicy! They're pretty hot and heavy at this point. I won't say for sure, but maybe they're thinking about living together.

Have you had the effects team hook you up so you can do a little flying around like Supergirl? I have! It's the perfect mixture between cool and annoying. It's really fun for about 45 to 90 seconds, and then you're like, "Get me the hell out of this thing!"

I imagine that harness is not comfy. It's a little tougher for guys, I'll say that. [Laughs]

BEING MARY JANE'S LORETTA DEVINE

TUESDAY, DEC. 8 10/9c, BET

SHE PLAYS Cece, the wily opportunist who had the good fortune to get into a car crash with news anchor Mary Jane Paul (Gabrielle Union). Not only did Cece finagle a $100,000 payoff from Mary Jane's station—despite no major injuries—she also extorted $25,000 in hush money from the star herself, who was drinking before the accident. Now she's stalking Mary Jane and giving her career advice. And Mary Jane's taking it! "Cece is so unusual—a villain but not; extremely intelligent but crazy," Devine says. "And she really believes she's friends with Mary Jane and that their possibilities together are endless."

WHERE YOU'VE SEEN HER The oh-so-divine Devine—an original Dreamgirl on Broadway—won an Emmy as Alzheimer's patient Adele Webber on Grey's Anatomy. Other roles include Marla, the bipolar teacher on Boston Public, and Cynthia, the holy-roller matriarch on last summer's comedy hit The Carmichael Show. "People used to think I was so sweet," says Devine. "They'd come up and say, 'Will you be my mom?' Now they're like, 'You go away! You need to leave Mary Jane alone!' And I love it."

WHY WE LOVE HER Devine's take on Cece is riveting, maddening, scary as hell yet laugh-out-loud delightful. "Loretta takes this character to the most unexpected places," executive producer Mara Brock Akil says. "Her Cece is completely fresh and constantly surprising." And how. Cece didn't pocket that $125,000. Instead, she invested it in a bookstore that inspires and empowers African-Americans.

MANNING UP Although not much is made of Cece's sexuality, she's all man when it comes to fashion, with Devine sporting suits, ties and fedoras by Oscar-nominated costumer Ruth E. Carter. "Cece was originally a male role, but when the actor they wanted wasn't available, the part fell to me," reveals Devine. "I watch men, study men, admire men, so when I got a chance to emulate one, I went for it! Cece is every guy I've known and loved." —Michael Logan

THE VAMPIRE DIARIES

THURSDAY, DEC. 10 Midseason finale, 8/7c, The CW

SANTA WON'T LIKELY be parking his sled in Mystic Falls this year. And can you blame him? In The Vampire Diaries' bloody midseason finale, characters pair up, split up and undergo drastic transformations—all in time for the holidays. Executive producer Caroline Dries and Candice King (above), who plays pregnant vampire Caroline Forbes, tease five things you need to know about this twisty hour. —Ileane Rudolph

1. The Salvatore brothers get drunk on the holiday spirit. "Stefan [Paul Wesley] and Damon [Ian Somerhalder] embark on a road trip to kill their common enemy but collide, in a hilarious and gruesome fashion, with a Santa pub crawl" Dries says. "Nothing says Vampire Diaries Christmas like Stefan's drive to kill the bad guy while his brother sips spiked eggnog."

2. Caroline and Alaric (Matt Davis) bond over parenting classes. "They're in a situation where they need each other's support, especially while Stefan is busy managing all the heretic-caused chaos," King says. "So you'll see some great moments of friendship between Caroline and Alaric." But don't fret, Staroline fans. "She is still very much in love with Stefan!" King says. Fans know, of course, that Caroline and Alaric are engaged in the future timeline, "so clearly something happened between Stefan and Caroline," Dries says.

3. Relationships start to shift. Look for the frost between Caroline and Stefan's first girlfriend, heretic Valerie (Elizabeth Blackmore), to begin thawing. "She has empathy for Valerie," says King. "They have a very interesting dynamic coming up." As do witch Bonnie (Kat Graham) and lesbian heretic Nora (Scarlett Byrne). "Bonnie is fully aware of how Nora affects her town," Dries says. "At the same time, Bonnie can relate to Nora's isolation. Bonnie doesn't have an ulterior motive right now, but when she needs something from Nora, she won't be afraid to ask."

4. There's yet another controversial flash-forward romance. "It's another shocker," Dries says. "Some people will be pleased; others will throw things at their TVs and send writer Brian Young nasty tweets."

5. The final jaw-dropping moments! If that weren't enough: "The last scene changes everything," Dries promises. "We knew we had to wrap up one chapter and launch into another. Expect tremendous fallout—especially for Damon and Stefan."

BONES

THURSDAY, DEC. 10 Midseason finale, 8/7c, Fox

Howdy, partners. Booth (David Boreanaz) and Brennan (Emily Deschanel) go undercover at an Old West shooting competition in Bones' two-hour fall finale. Executive producer Jonathan Collier teases, "They had a blast. David was amazing at mastering his holster moves."

THEN AND NOW

SUNDAY, DEC. 13 Series premiere, 10/9c, Bravo

ANDY COHEN IS a pop-culture fanatic with a knack for bringing together strange bedfellows. So it's no wonder that the host of Bravo's late-night talk show, Watch What Happens Live, has found another arena for his signature powers. In the new three-part series Then and Now With Andy Cohen, he'll revisit events that took place during a trio of years in recent history—1989, 1994 and 2000—by swapping stories with such guests as Kelly Ripa, Connie Chung, Billy Eichner and former White House social secretary Jeremy Bernard. Here, he previews the trip down memory lane. —Ingela Ratledge

You started your career as a producer at CBS News. Does this feel like going back to your roots? This is the most journalistic thing I've done in a while. Bravo really encouraged us to go smart with the topics we're covering—it's everything from Elián González and the Berlin Wall falling to Kelly Ripa talking about the first time she got Botox. It's definitely deep and shallow, which is one of my trademarks.

What made you zero in on these years? We wanted to focus on big things happening during years that weren't too close. The 1994 episode is juicy. We talk to Bob Tur, who was the first helicopter pilot following the O.J. Simpson chase [and has] now switched genders. It was interesting hearing from her.

Have we come a long way in recent decades? Obviously, the world is so different now in terms of technology, music, activism. Look at where gays were in 1989, when I was coming out of the closet, and now it's a new frontier. But some things haven't changed. If you think about what was going on back then with race relations, it's really eerily similar to today.

Even though this project is newsy, it's a relief to know there are still Real Housewives in the mix! Oh, yeah. We have Bethenny Frankel, Heather Dubrow, Lea Black, Kyle Richards. They're hilarious in it—which is what we wanted!

5 THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT

SNL's PETE DAVIDSON

SATURDAY, DEC. 12 11:30/10:30c, NBC

AS SATURDAY NIGHT Live's "Resident Young Person," Pete Davidson perks up Weekend Update with his millennial take on the news. (Example: "You know who Donald Trump reminds me of? Sanjaya from American Idol... he had weird hair and he sang like garbage.") But the 22-year-old, whose firefighter dad died on 9/11, has grown up fast. "I'm maybe 28 in a 22-year-old's body, but I still ride my hoverboard everywhere. I used to pee while on it!" Here are five facts about the funnyman. —Aubry D'Arminio

1. He appeared on VH1's Mob Wives. Wives cast member Derek Tabacco was a buddy of Davidson's. " In Season 2, he got into a fight at this restaurant and ran out with 14 mob men following him," Davidson recalls. "I was the one driving his getaway vehicle."

2. He eats humble pie. "I'd say 90 percent of my SNL pitches eat s--t. I said to [November 14 host] Elizabeth Banks, 'I have this idea where you're my boss and you fire me because I'm always holding a sword in the office.' No one laughed."

3. He's just wild about Harry Potter. "I'm so excited for the prequel and desperately trying to find out if I could be a wizard," he says. "None of [the cast] has been on SNL recently—probably better, because I'd just be so annoying."

4. He once flashed an audience during a set. And he became a momentary sensation doing it. "When I was 18, I was doing stand-up wearing ripped jeans, and I did this bit where I jumped around and they just shredded," he says. "I wasn't good back then, so that was the best part of the show. It murdered!"

5. He nearly got arrested. Davidson once jumped a subway turnstile... and got caught. "All my friends ran but me," he says. "I was always told to stop when someone yells—I think that's why they let me go. I also screamed "I'm sorry!" and followed it up with waterworks."

EDITORS' PICK

LUTHER

THURSDAY, DEC. 17 TV movie, 9/8c, BBC America

It truly seemed as if perennially grim detective John Luther (Idris Elba, above) had a chance at happiness—or at least a reason to smile—when he walked off arm-in-arm with psycho paramour Alice (The Affair's Ruth Wilson) in Luther's Season 3 finale. But looks, as they say, are liars. And when tonight's two-hour special picks up several months later, Alice is gone, it's the dead of winter and the chief inspector is still smarting over the murder of his only friend, the loyal Sergeant Ripley (Warren Brown).

"If previous events weren't hanging over him, he wouldn't be John Luther," executive producer Neil Cross says. "And there are unexpected repercussions of his past decisions." Luther, who's on a leave of absence from the police department, will also get pulled into a case with new colleagues, including an ambitious young cop (Games of Thrones' Rose Leslie). The savvy new baddie is a ruthless cannibal, played by John Heffernan of Jonathan Strange & Mr. Norrell fame. "He's scary enough to cause a few people to check that their doors and windows are locked before going to bed," Cross says. "And to cause a few bad dreams." —Aubry D'Arminio

FARGO

MONDAY, DEC. 14 Season finale, 10/9c, FX

Fargo fans, rejoice—the show has been renewed for a third season, after a sophomore run that can be described in one word: killer. The 1979-set Midwestern noir's turf war between the Gerhardts and Kansas City Syndicate has resulted in more corpses than you can shake a shiv at. And things are about to get even bloodier in the finale. "The surprise is not so much who's going to die as who's going to live," says Patrick Wilson, who plays state trooper Lou Solverson, the decent, soulful lawman caught in the middle. "If major characters start going bye-bye by Episode 5, you've got to suspect they're all going to start dropping eventually."

Vietnam-vet Lou is sure to survive, however. (The character's 2006 self was played by Keith Carradine in Season 1.) But he's not going to have an easy time of it. Still, Wilson says, don't assume that certain tragic events unveiled last season (e.g., Lou's wounded hip or his wife's eventual demise) will occur tonight. "Remember, there are several years between this chapter and the first," Wilson says. "That's a lot of room for stuff to happen."

Instead, prepare to watch Lou do anything to halt the mayhem caused by the Gerhardts and the Syndicate, as well as by naive interlopers Ed and Peggy Blumquist (Jesse Plemons and Kirsten Dunst). "Lou knows deep down that his wife's cancer is a battle he is not going to win. He's got to see something good happen. That's why he's so determined to see this case through at any cost," Wilson says. "He's a pretty successful cop. Mind you, he's been a step behind for a bit of the series, but by this point, he's definitely in the thick of it, and how it all goes down is very strange indeed." —AD

NCIS

TUESDAY, DEC. 15 8/7c, CBS

THE FALL SEASON has been cruel to NCIS agent Ellie Bishop (Emily Wickersham). First she thought her husband, Jake (Jamie Bamber), died in a Dubai hotel bombing. Then he admitted to having an affair with a slinky Internal Affairs official. And now, in tonight's holiday episode, Jake and Ellie must finally face the future of their marriage. Wickersham dishes on the not-so-jolly proceedings and the advice she'd give Ellie. —Aubry D'Arminio

This doesn't sound like the happiest of Yuletide storylines. Right? It sounds like the saddest show ever! But Jake and Ellie have a really serious, adult discussion about their relationship—and it can go either way.

Ellie is a stress eater, so at least the holidays are good for that. [Laughs] Oh, yeah, I imagine over Thanksgiving she got a little stress eating in. I go the opposite way: When I'm really stressed, my stomach gets in major knots.

If Ellie was your friend, what would you tell her? To sit down and analyze how their relationship is making her feel and where she stands.

Will her NCIS colleagues rally around her? We've been seeing her become more a part of the team. Now we'll see them take care of her and be on her side, just the way a friend or family member would.

On a lighter note, how do the people behind the scenes at NCIS celebrate the holidays? They invite friends and family to the set and put out all this food. People bring their dogs. It's a lot of fun ...and chocolate!

ELEMENTARY

THURSDAY, DEC. 17 10/9c, CBS

Miller and Noble

MICHAEL PARMELEE/CBS

Could the legendary detective team of Holmes and Watson become Holmes, Watson and Holmes? While the idea of Sherlock (Jonny Lee Miller) solving cases not only with Joan Watson (Lucy Liu) but also with Morland (John Noble), the father he detests, seems implausible, that's exactly what happens on tonight's Elementary.

Morland's parenting style has always been high on chilly disapproval and lacerating wit. But despite Sherlock's protestation that his dad's presence in New York "is an irritant," Morland has decided to stay near his recovering addict son. "Sherlock must have been an incredibly difficult child," jokes Noble, who's played unpleasant patresfamilias and one evil 250-year-old son in a string of movies (The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King) and TV series (Fringe and Sleepy Hollow). It isn't easy for this "man with immense wealth and immense power who lives above the rules" to make amends, Noble says, but the fixer for the rich and corrupt seems to be making an attempt.

Morland, who has secretaries of state on his speed dial, is drawn to Sherlock's criminal case this week when he quickly deduces that a gunman's vicious attack in a New York City park that killed three people is something very different from what it seems. He approaches his son with information about the shooter and, despite his reluctance, "Sherlock realizes that Morland has the connections to do what his son can't," the Australian actor says. "The possibility of them working together is an incredible breakthrough for the relationship."

But even if there's a father-and-son reunion of sorts, don't expect Morland to mimic the tearful sentiment voiced by Walter Bishop, Noble's popular Fringe character, to his estranged offspring: "You are my favorite thing." Noble says with a laugh, "That would be very wrong for this show." —Ileane Rudolph

A CHRISTMAS MELODY

SATURDAY, DEC. 19 8/7c, Hallmark Channel

LACEY CHABERT, YOUR lumps of coal have arrived! In Hallmark's new movie A Christmas Melody, the Mean Girls and Party of Five alum takes on the role of Kristin, a divorced single mom forced to shutter her L.A. boutique and return, designer tail between her legs, to her small Ohio hometown. Making matters worse: Her former high school rival, Melissa—played by pop superstar Mariah Carey, who also directs—is now the queen bee of the PTA and frostier than ever. Will Kristin manage to find the holiday spirit...perhaps with help from her aunt Sarah (Kathy Najimy) and hot local music teacher Danny (Brennan Elliott)? Chabert sings the movie's praises. —Ingela Ratledge

Kristin's going through a hard time. Can she turn her luck around? Of course! This is a Hallmark movie—by the end, everything will be beautiful. It's about starting over and learning to find your way again.

How'd it feel to find out that you'd be working with Mariah? I got the part on my birthday, and I was like, "best present ever!" Then, to top it off, Mariah called and left me a voicemail. It was the sweetest message, and she sang me "Happy Birthday." I've listened to it 1,000 times and played it for everybody I know.

Was it intimidating going toe to toe with her on camera? We shot the movie in Ohio, and when we first got to Cincinnati, Brennan and I went to have dinner with her and the producers. I was so nervous on the car ride over that I touched up my makeup, like, 17 times—because I'm a legit fan. But she's so nice and warm. When I was shooting scenes with her, I didn't forget that she's Mariah Carey, but I was at ease.

Your Mean Girls alter ego, Gretchen, famously bragged about her dad being the inventor of Toaster Strudel. How often do fans mention that? A day never passes. But I'm always surprised by what people bring up. Last week, a guy in his thirties told me how much he loved me on [Nickelodeon animated series] The Wild Thornberrys. I was like, "How do you even know about that?"

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

SATURDAY, DEC. 19 various times, ESPN, ESPN2 and CBS

The Road to March Madness is taking its December detour. As top NCAA men's basketball teams face tough nonconference foes with league play just around the bend, ESPN analyst Fran Fraschilla points out three big trends. —Karen Rosen

The season of the senior continues... "I describe this current class of college seniors as 'They've been good enough to lead, but they haven't been good enough to leave [for the NBA],'" Fraschilla says. "There are more veteran players spread around the power conferences. This year—unlike any year recently—the depth of upperclassmen will negate the very talented freshmen who have arrived." He singles out point guard Yogi Ferrell, whose Indiana Hoosiers take on Notre Dame; guard Malcolm Brogdon, whose Virginia Cavaliers host Villanova; and guard Marcus Paige of North Carolina, who should be on the court against UCLA after missing the early season with an injury.

...but there's a new crop of one-and-dones. Kentucky (which meets Ohio State) and Duke (which takes on Utah) "are lapping the field at the moment from a recruiting standpoint," Fraschilla says. But they have a short window to make use of their talent. The Wildcats have two freshmen "likely to have their names called early in next June's NBA draft" in forward Skal Labissière and guard Jamal Murray, while the Blue Devils brought in guard Luke Kennard and forward Brandon Ingram, also expected to join the pros next year.

Parity should prevail. "There is no dominating team at this point, like Kentucky a year ago," Fraschilla says. "There are six or seven teams we'd consider elite, with another 25 that have a chance to get to the Final Four." Sounds like the second half of the season will be quite a (road) trip.

DOCTOR'S MEMORY BREAKTHROUGH

New Discovery for People with Failing Memory

World's Leading Brain Expert and Winner of the Prestigious Kennedy Award, Unveils Exciting News For the Scattered, Unfocused and Forgetful

By Steven Wuzubia
Health Correspondent;

Clearwater, Florida: Dr. Meir Shinitzky, Ph.D., is a former visiting professor at Duke University, recipient of the prestigious J.F. Kennedy Prize and author of more than 200 international scientific papers on human body cells. But now he's come up with what the medical world considers his greatest accomplishment — A vital compound. so powerful, it's reported to repair… even regrow damaged brain cells. In layman's terms — Bring back your memory power. And leave you feeling more focused and clear-headed than you have in years!

Dr. Shinitsky explains this phenomenon in simple terms; "Science has shown when your brain nutrient levels drop, you can start to experience memory problems and overall mental fatigue. Your ability to concentrate and stay focused becomes compromised. And gradually, a "mental fog" sets in. It can damage every aspect of your life". Not only do brain cells die but they become dysfunctional as if they begin to fade away as we age. This affects our ability to have mental clarity and focus and impacts our ability to remember things that were easy for us to do in our 20's and 30's.

Scientists think the biggest cause of brain deterioration in older people is the decreased functioning of membranes and molecules that surround the brain cells. These really are the transmitters that connect the tissues or the brain cells to one another that help us with our sharp memory, clear thinking and mental focus, even our powers to reason well. "When we are in our 20's" according to Dr. Shinitzky "our body produces key substances like phosphatidylserine and phosphatidic acid"…unfortunately they are believed to be critical essential nutrients that just fade away with age, much like our memories often do leading to further mental deterioration.

As we get older it becomes more frustrating as there is little comfort when you forget names… misplace your keys…or just feel "a little confused". And even though your foggy memory gets laughed off as just another "senior moment," it's not very funny when it keeps happening to you.

The Missing Link is Found and Tested

It's hard to pronounce that's for sure, but it certainly appears from the astounding clinical research that this one vital nutrient phosphatidylserine (PS) can really make a huge difference in our mental wellness. 17 different double blind studies with placebo controlled groups have been involved in the clinical research of PS with patients between the ages of 55-80 years of age. Periodically the researchers gave these patients memory and cognitive tests and the results were simply amazing:

1) PS patients outperformed placebo patients in All 5 Tests - 100% Success Rate
2) After only 45 days there was a measurable improvement in mental function
3) After 90 days, there was an impressive and amazing improvement in mental function

The group taking phosphatidylserine, not only enjoyed sharper memory, but listen to this… they were also more upbeat and remarkably more happy. In contrast, the moods of the individuals who took the placebo (starch pill), remained unaffected….no mental or mood improvement at all.

My Memory Started to Scare Me.

I would forget all kinds of things and something that I just said earlier in the day would have completely slipped my mind. I almost forgot my granddaughter's birthday and that would have been horrible. I had forgotten lots of other little things along the way. I was worried about it.

Over the last several months I've noticed my memory seemed to be getting pretty unreliable and so I thought I'd better do something about it now. So when I read about this amazing PS nutrient and how much it would help me with my memory I wanted to try it.

It's great! I have actual recall now, which is super. After about 6 weeks of taking it on a daily basis is when I began to notice that I wasn't forgetting things anymore.

Thanks to PS for giving me my memory back. It's given me a lot more self-confidence and self-esteem. I would not trust my memory without it.

- Ethel Macagnoney

Vital Nutrient Reverses "Scatter Brain"

This incredible PS nutrient feeds your brain the vital nutrient it needs to stay healthy... PS now has the attention of some of the world's most prominent brain experts. It has been written up and published in leading science and medical journals and its findings have electrified the International scientific community.

Earth-Shaking Science

Published, clinical reports show replenishing your body's natural supply of Phosphatidylserine, not only helps sharpen your memory and concentration — but also helps "perk you up" and put you in a better mood. PS as it turns out also helps to reduce everyday stress and elevate your mood by lowering your body's production of the hormone cortisol. When cortisol levels are too high for too long you experience fatigue, bad moods and weakness. This drug-free brain-boosting formula enters your bloodstream fast (in as little as thirty minutes).

Officially Reviewed by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration: Lipogen PS Plus is the ONLY Health Supplement that has a "Qualified Health Claim for both Cognitive Dysfunction and Dementia".

Special Opportunity For Our Readers

We've made arrangements with the distributor of this proprietary blend of PS, which combines with several other proven special brain boosting natural ingredients to give you the mental clarity and memory gain that you need, to give you a Risk-Free trial supply. This is a special "Readers Only Discount". This trial is 100% risk-free.

It's a terrific deal. If Lipogen PS Plus doesn't help you think better, remember more... and improve your mind, clarity and mood — you won't pay a penny! (Except S&H).

But you must act fast. Your order can only be guaranteed if it comes in within the next 7-days. After that, supplies could run out. And your order may not be fulfilled until they are replenished.

So don't wait. Now you can join the thousands of people who think better, remember more — and enjoy clear, "fog-free" memory. Call today, toll-free at 1-800-423-7533. Think of it as making a "wake-up call" to your brain.

JEERS TO WICKED CITY

for being the first casualty of the new season. We're not in the business of naming names, but truth be told, the ABC thriller starring Ed Westwick and Erika Christensen as serial killers stalking the Sunset Strip in the 1980s was far from the fall's worst freshman series. #yeswedidnamenames

JEERS TO FATAL FAKEOUTS

In the same month that The Walking Dead made us think Glenn (Steven Yeun) bit it in a pile of walkers, The Leftovers "killed" Kevin (Justin Theroux, below, with Ann Dowd) only to bring him back a week later.
